09.00 - 09.30 uur	Ontvangst met koffie/thee
09.30 - 10.30 uur	Welkom en start masterclass Ronald J. Frederick The ability to mindfully experience, regulate, and respond to one's feelings is essential to mental health and well-being. Yet problems managing emotion abound and play a central role in most psychiatric disorders. How can we best help so many of our clients who, regardless of diagnosis, have difficulty being present with and making good use of their emotional experience?

11:00 - 12:00 uur	Workshop Drawing on current findings in the areas of affective neuroscience, attachment, and neuroplasticity, "Emotional Mindfulness" provides a conceptual framework through which we can more readily identify, understand, and help cultivate the skills of affective competence. This workshop will illustrate how our emotional development can go awry, but how, through clinical interventions in which emotions are experienced as positive and free from fear, we can help clients develop essential capacities, stimulate and strengthen new neural pathways, and restore vitality and well-being.
12:00 - 13:00 uur	Lunch
13.00 - 15.00 uur	Vervolg van masterclass Grounded in Accelerated Experiential Dynamic Psychotherapy (AEDP), a healing oriented model of therapy, and incorporating components of current experiential, relational, mindfulness-based, and cognitive-behavioral therapies, the presenter will introduce a proven four-step, approach to emotional mindfulness that can be integrated into any treatment orientation. Dr. Frederick will illustrate practical and powerful techniques for: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1) Increasing awareness,2) Reducing anxiety and fear,3) Developing emotional competence, and4) Expanding one's capacity for expression and reception.

Workshop en afsluiting

Through demonstration, video clips, and experiential exercises, you will learn how to integrate the strategies into your practice and help clients develop skills they can apply in their daily lives—thus accelerating their therapeutic progress. You will leave this workshop with a toolkit to help you and your clients overcome fear, open up to a richer emotional experience, and realize a broader range of personal and relational possibilities.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

- Identify and describe how over- and under-regulation of emotion is often the root of many presenting problems.
- Understand cutting-edge findings from affective neuroscience and attachment studies and their relevance to clinical work.
- Learn powerful techniques to rewire the brain and restore vitality that can be incorporated into any clinical practice.
- Make optimal use of the present-moment, relational experience to affect long-lasting change.
- Increase your own comfort with emotions as well as your confidence and skill at helping clients navigate their emotional experiences.
