

Postural control related to reaching: core business

Advanced Bobath course for physiotherapists and occupational therapists

Organized by the Rehabilitation Center of the University Hospital of Ghent in cooperation with the Belgian association of Bobath-instructors

Course aims

The course aims to increase knowledge and understanding on the close relationship between postural control, core strength and upper limb function in persons with neurological dysfunction. Participants will develop their clinical reasoning skills through patient workshops, practical and patient treatment sessions. The course will provide participants with the opportunity to review the current evidence base as well as identify and modify existing knowledge in relation to this subject and the Bobath concept. Focus will be on developing handling skills, based on structured clinical reasoning.

Learning Outcomes

- To augment knowledge on the neurophysiological basis of upper limb movement
- To augment knowledge on the key factors underpinning upper limb function
- To deepen clinical reasoning skills related to postural control and reach
- To critically evaluate and validate specific handling skills through self-evaluation
- To consider the theoretical evidence base and in-depth movement analysis to assist treatment intervention
- To evaluate response to treatment using a patient related outcome measure
- To understand how a change on the impairment level can impact on the patients level of functioning.
