

vocal communication

in animals, humans, and robots

g r o n i n g e n 2 0 1 8

- home
- program
- information
- registration

Program

This preliminary program may still be subject to change, but the start and end times on each day will not change significantly.

09:30 10:15 Registration and coffee

10:15 10:20 Opening remarks

Deniz Başkent

10:20 10:45 Department of Otorhinolaryngology, University of Groningen, University Medical Center Groningen, Groningen, NL

It takes two to communicate: voice perception and linguistic content

Roger K. Moore

10:45 11:10 Speech and Hearing Research Group, Department of Computer Science, University of Sheffield, Sheffield, GB

The voice says it all

Anara Sandygulova

11:10 11:35 Department of Robotics and Mechatronics, Nazarbayev University, Astana, KZ

Child-robot perception: age and gender differences

Khiet Truong

11:35 12:00 Faculty of Electrical Engineering, Mathematics & Computer Science, University of Twente, Enschede, NL

Social robotics research at the Human Media Interaction group

12:00 13:30 Lunch

Carolyn McGettigan

13:30 13:55 VoCoLab, Department of Psychology, Royal Holloway, University of London, Egham, GB

Flexible voices: perceiving person identity from variable vocal signals

Marco Gamba

13:55 14:20 Department of Life Sciences and Systems Biology, Università degli Studi di Torino, Torino, IT

Acoustic cues to individual identity in the primate songs and calls

Ella Z. Lattenkamp

14:20 14:55 Max Planck Institute for Psycholinguistics, Nijmegen, NL

Bats as a mammalian model for vocal learning

14:55 15:30 Break

Matt Davis

15:30 15:55 MRC Cognition and Brain Sciences Unit, University of Cambridge, Cambridge, GB
Predicting and perceiving degraded speech

Jan Wouters

15:55 16:20 ExpORL, KU Leuven, Leuven, BE
Auditory Steady State brain responses: a window to study auditory temporal processing

Terrin Tamati

16:20 16:45 Department of Otorhinolaryngology, University of Groningen, University Medical Center Groningen, Groningen, NL

More than words: talkers' voices in speech perception by cochlear implant users

16:45 17:00 Closing remarks

19:00 ... Dinner at restaurant t'Feithuis
(registration required)

Last modified 2018-10-02 15:20:46