

Admissibility Dutch Students to SPI trainings

Sensorimotor Psychotherapy is a 'body oriented' talking therapy. The SP -site states ' The Training Program is designed for legally authorized mental health professionals to integrate and apply Sensorimotor Psychotherapy theory and techniques into clinical practice."

The Dutch Mental Health Field is complicated. Registrations and Accreditations are very important. They are a means to guarantee the quality and high professional standards of both training and trainee. It is important to abide with the accreditation rules as much as possible.

Hence the clarification up front on admissibility of Dutch Mental Health professionals.

All those that hold a UNIVERSITY MASTER DEGREE (or in the pre 2000 system title drs./doctorandus) in one of the behavioural sciences AND have had at least 2 years of post graduate clinical training, have worked under supervision plus have relevant working experience are admissible.

These professionals have to re-register every 5 years during which they have to prove to have been involved in accredited professional education. Also they are liable for their actions under Dutch law (Medisch klacht-en tuchtrecht)

Applicants that do not meet the pre-requisites, can not be admitted to the Dutch Trainings. For them workshops and short trainings will be provided in the future.

People having been trained in SPI trainings in the Netherlands, and working the general Mental Health Field in the Netherlands or Dutch speaking part of Belgium, can become (aspirant) member of the Sensorimotor Psychotherapy Institute Professional Association (SPIPA) - NL . After completing level II alumni can become full members, provided they are registered as GGZ-professionals and as such accountable for their professional work by means of law (BIG) or by means of professional membership (Verenigingstuchtrecht).

SPIPA-NL aims at positioning sensorimotor psychotherapy as a main stream psychotherapy in the Dutch field of psychology and psychotherapy. More info on SPIPA-NL : www.sensorimotorpsychotherapy.nl.
